The D'Amore-McKim School of Business develops leaders who will shape business in domains not yet discovered. Three distinctive mindsets – global, entrepreneurial, and lifelong learning – are at the core of the D'Amore-McKim experience.

The DMSB Alumni Legacy

Our alumni are our greatest asset, driving innovation in their fields and opportunities for our current students. As you have experienced first-hand, cooperative education and experiential learning are central to the experience of every D'Amore-McKim student, providing the opportunity to apply classroom learning and life experiences in a real-world professional context. At Northeastern, we are leveling up to expand high impact co-op opportunities for our highly motivated students. Consider bringing the cooperative education program to your organization to shape the next generation of talent and create value for your team.

The Mutual Value Proposition

Our students are intelligent and highly capable students motivated to work for your organization. Prior to their first co-op, students are required to take a "Professional Development for Business" course where they develop an understanding of professionalism and are prepared on day one. Our rigorous academics include a focus on AI readiness to meet the demands of the rapidly changing landscape.

- Academic excellence with practical applications
- AI-ready talent pipeline
- Career motivated from day one

Co-op Key Facts

- Co-op engagements are 4 or 6 months in duration and begin in January, July or September.
- Students work on-site, remotely, or a combination of both.
- Students are compensated while on co-op: hourly or salaried. See current average DMSB Co-op Wages. Students are hired as W2 employees of your organization.
- Positions are full-time at a minimum of 32 hours per week.
- Employers partner with a Co-op Faculty member through program exploration, development, search, and student on-boarding.
- The Employer Handbook defines the university-employer relationship and employer expectations, in particular, that Northeastern students must be hired as employees, not as independent contractors.
